Under comments or requests from citizens, Mayor DeBaun asked the one student in the audience to stand, tell us his name, and say why he was here. His name was Michael Todd, who said he was a senior at Shelbyville High School, and he attended to get a paper signed showing he attended the meeting for his teacher. Councilman Nolley said he remembered Michael swimming for him a few years ago. Councilman Phares said that whoever signs his paper, to write City Hall's address on it because no one has ever seen this teacher in all the years they've been on the Council, causing laughter from the Mayor, Councilmen, and those in the audience.

There being no further business, Councilman Asher moved to adjourn.
